The club meets monthly at different hospitals and clinics to learn about casting, sutures, ventilation and intubation, injections, ultrasounds and other medical procedures. The experience gained from being a part of the club, with the opportunity for hands on learning, has helped many of the students decide which aspect of the medical field they would like to specialize in. The club has been working with an outside organization, Projects Abroad, to enable the students to go on a first ever District medical mission trip. The fees have increased from $1,660 in 2020 to $2,745 in 2021. Members shared information on an upcoming plant sale fundraiser and invited Board members and administration to join them for their annual end of the year banquet.

G. Board Meeting Rules Discussion

- Board members discussed reviewing policy regarding audience participation at meetings. Members unanimously agreed to review policy and make changes necessary to allow for audience members to clap during audience comments. It was reported audience members have started to stand to show solidarity, which some feel is more distracting than clapping.

H. Ascent Classical Academy Discussion

- Mrs. Haitz explained at the time District 51 became an exclusive authorizer, which allows the District to grant or deny a charter school authority to work directly with the Colorado Charter School Institute, there was not a process in place to determine if authorization should be granted or denied. She highlighted the steps of the new process now in place to make a determination.
- Dr. Sholtes clarified there has always been a process in place for charter schools to be chartered under the District, but not a process for charter schools to work directly with the Colorado Charter School Institute.

I. Audience Comments

- Shellina Sheeran, Grand Junction 81507
Ms. Sheeran spoke in support of the Ascent Classical Academy and shared a statement from their website. She reported attending the Board Coffee and listening to teachers speaking on how disruptive some students are in the classroom and the lack of administrative support in disciplining students. She noted the reporter from the Daily Sentinel focused on one comment from the Coffee and did not speak about the discipline problems.
- Julie Fisher, Clifton 81520
Ms. Fisher spoke positively about Ascent Classical Academy. She works for the clerk and records office and is not always in support of taking away local control and giving it to the state. She questioned, in this instance, if it is the best use of time and money in having the state approve the Ascent Classical Academy. She would like to see a system in place that looks at what is most beneficial for the District when deciding if a charter school should go directly to the state.

- Wreathith Jacob, Grand Junction 81507
Ms. Jacob spoke in support of the Ascent Classical Academy and feels it has a tried and true curriculum and offers an American classical education. She also shared her grandson has told her he is tired of having to watch CNN News

 Mr. Hunger reported he is a patriot and he believes in the United States. He believes Americans have been blessed and he sees the Ascent Classical Academy as an opportunity for democracy, educational diversity and an opportunity for students to have another educational opportunity.  - Caryn Romero, Grand Junction 81504

 - Ana Elliott, Grand Junction 81504
 Ms. Elliott spoke in support of Ascent Classical Academy and her desire for her two grandkids to attend Ascent Classical Academy. She pointed out that on the District website it speaks about school of choice and she quoted from the website about students being able to attend a school or program located in an area other than their assigned school. She believes Ascent Classical Academy would be a good thing to include in school of choice. She noted Ascent Classical Academy will provide core knowledge in English, grammar, phonics, Singapore math, Latin, history, science, art, music and physical education in a school that will not have CRT, CSE or SEL.
 - Rina Kopp, Grand Junction 81504
 Ms. Kopp encourage the Board to approve Ascent Classical Academy. She noted she is very familiar with the Hillsdale College and wants parents to have a choice.
 - Pete Hosburgh, Grand Junction 81503
 Mr. Hosburgh spoke in favor of Ascent Classical Academy to give parents more choices and opportunities for students.
 - Tom Keenan, Palisade 81526
 Mr. Keenan reported parents need choices such as Ascent Classical Academy. He reported he has subbed for the District for about five years and subbed at Caprock Academy. He noted not one teacher at Caprock Academy has to deal with discipline in the classroom. Discipline at Caprock Academy is immediate. The students are removed from the classroom, talked to and learn quickly that inappropriate behaviors are not acceptable. He reported Caprock Academy is full and he feels there needs to be more choices for students who are currently being homeschooled.
 - Betty Baltzer, Grand Junction 81507
 Ms. Baltzer reported she had three children, one who is very intelligent and one with special needs. She also has three grandchildren and believes we need as many educational choices and options as possible. She believes the more choices the better. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Carol Bremmer, Whitewater 81527 Ms. Bremmer agreed with the other speakers. She noted, based on the presentation given earlier, she believes the District cares about students finding the right path and education for each student and having another classical education program would offer another choice. ➤ Katlyn George, Grand Junction 81501 Ms. George agreed with the other speakers. She is looking forward to having another option and requested the Board vote to allow Ascent Classical Academy to work with the state. ➤ Nina Anderson, Grand Junction 81501 Ms. Anderson, owner of a staffing company and parent of two, gave thanks to Principal Walker at West Middle School for accepting her daughter as a choice student and helping her daughter get the best education possible. She reported her son was a third grader when he entered District 51 and attended summer school to help with his reading. When it came time for him to attend middle school, East and West Middle Schools were not an option, so he enrolled in Caprock Academy. She believes the classical education and Singapore math taught at Caprock Academy helped him be successful in high school and graduate from Colorado State University with a mechanical engineering degree. She believes choice matters and parents need to be educated on what programs are available so they can do what is best for their students. She requested the Board consider the Ascent Classical Academy as a viable option for the District. ➤ Jacqueline Anderson, Grand Junction 81505 Ms. Anderson, who described herself as the local capitalist, believes in free thought and free market. She requested the Board recognize the steps Ascent Classical Academy has taken in recognizing there is a need for this type program. She feels the program offered by Ascent Classical Academy will help students to achieve their goals. She noted Ascent cannot only help students but is also another option for teachers. She reported her daughter, when they lived on the front range, needed a smaller classroom environment and she was lucky to be able to get her daughter in a charter school. She believes the education and confidence her daughter achieved while attending the charter school enabled her to be successful in a public school when they moved to District 51. She believes students need different options so student have the path of least resistance.
						<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Cory Anderson, Grand Junction 81505 Mr. Anderson noted his daughter struggled when attending public school, and just one year in a charter school made an incredible difference. He noted he is proud of his daughter and mentioned she went to state this year for DECA. He would like to see as many options in the Grand Valley as possible for students. ➤ Jeff Leany, Fruita 81521 Mr. Leany noted phonics and cursive writing are not being taught in our schools and students are not doing well in math. He reported the Ascent Classical Academy program offers phonics, cursive and Singapore math, which is the best

- Gary Hunt, Fruita 81521
Mr. Hunt, a graduate of District 51, thanked the District for his education. He is excited about having another charter school in the valley and an additional option for students. He reported having five grandchildren and he worries about their education. His brother and sister-in-law, who live in Utah, pay a large sum for their children to attend private school. He believes the Ascent Classical Academy is a good thing for the District.
- Sue Kupdian, Grand Junction 81501
Ms. Kupdian reported on having several neighbors with grand children who are excited about having another choice in the valley for a K-12 school which will offer a classical education with high emphasis on standards and building character.
- Sarah Fletcher, Grand Junction 81507
Ms. Fletcher expressed her appreciation, after hearing the student presentations, on the opportunities students have to join various clubs and different career pathways. She reported her son, who is fourteen, is kind of a square peg in a round hole and she was hoping the Ascent Classical Academy would be an option for him, but feels he may be too old. She will be promoting the program for other students who are a square peg in a round hole to give them the opportunity for smaller class sizes. She was glad to hear Ascent Classical Academy works with students who have an Individual Education Plan, like her student. She encouraged the Board to streamline the process in moving forward to allow Ascent Classical Academy to submit their application to the state.
- Ricki Howie, Grand Junction 81501
Ms. Howie wished to speak on the rules the Board would be establishing for meetings. She noted she disagreed with the second sentence of the second paragraph of Policy BEDH which reads, "Public comments at regular business meetings may be on any subject of interest to the public". She reported coming to the meeting from a public rally against the Roe vs Wade decision and she wouldn't want to listen to three minutes of that subject. She requested the sentence be changed so the subject relates to school district. She spoke about Board rules referring to respect at all times, and how she resented comments made by one lady at the Board Coffee. She believes the Board needs to have a means to stop people from being disrespectful.

- Janet Drummond, Grand Junction 81507
Ms. Drummond spoke about how impressed she was with the presentation by Ascent Classical Academy, especially with their affiliation with Hillsdale College. She believes Ascent Classical Academy is a desperately needed asset for the community and is happy they are willing to come here.

Would Avelyn Benefield, Kyley King, Elizabeth Potter, Taylor Schimek, and Cheryl Tennant please join me at the front?

ProStart is a nationwide program that teaches high school students culinary techniques and hospitality management skills using industry-driven curriculum and hands-on experience. In February, Fruita Monument High School's ProStart students had the opportunity to put their knowledge to the test by preparing a three-course meal at the Annual ProStart Student Invitational & Sysco Denver Hospitality Cup Competition in Aurora.

This competition provided an opportunity for these students to compete against ProStart students from 29 other Colorado high schools. The team with the most culinary and hospitality management points by the end of the competition won the title of state champion. This year, Fruita Monument High School took top billing at the competition and will represent Colorado at the National ProStart Invitational May 6-8 in Washington, D.C.

The Board of Education and Superintendent Sirko would like to recognize and congratulate Cheryl Tennant and her ProStart students on their win at state and wish them luck at nationals later this week!
